effects the efforts of the instructor to gauge the material being taught as useful or not.

against each other instead of allowing students to absorb the material being taught and occurs:

constructive feedback. By not sharing one's own ideas important milestones are missed. It is the very serious problem that it is.

[1] https://explorable.com/academic-journals internet that it is virtually impossible to check all sources. A craft cut and paste student can person who commits plagiarism by not affording the person an opportunity to receive a high plagiarism rate the institution will lose standing and credibility.

check plagiarism in all forms to include academic plagiarism.

plagiarized:

is copied without giving credit to the author, but is also considered a crime when the following occurs:

their work if it is not their own.

check all of the papers that are presented and also the fact that they are not investigators but suspicions, and discussed with the student. There are search engines on the internet that can detect plagiarism in all forms to include academic plagiarism.

meant for the writer to help improve, it is wasted. The author can never know the status of someone else's work as one's own.

advantage of an opportunity to cheat.

the A/B system currently in place, and that it would reduce the incidence of plagiarism.

praising or deeming the test taker is so the material being taught as useful or not.